Dear Hunter Mill Friends,

As most of you are aware, last summer, Reston National Golf Course (RNGC) requested an interpretation of its zoning status. As I shared in previous communications, it is not unusual for land owners to request that the Fairfax County Zoning Administration provide an interpretation on the use of their land. Following the established process, the Fairfax County Zoning Administrator responded that, according to the original development plan, the RNGC property is designated open space. Reston National Golf Course, disagreeing with that opinion, has chosen to appeal that decision before the Board of Zoning Appeal (BZA). Currently, the BZA Public Hearing on this matter was originally scheduled for a January date. Reston National Golf Course chose to defer its appearance before the BZA until May 22, 2013.

From the outset, I have supported - and continue to support - the Zoning Administrator's decision.

In addition, contrary to the Reston Patch and Reston 2020 reports, I have not been involved with any discussions with RNGC owners, Reston Association, Fairfax County Park Authority or others regarding any activity associated with this property.

As Reston residents, all of us can make our voices heard by attending the May 22nd meeting and signing up to speak. Or, you may forward a letter to the BZA expressing your concerns regarding the appeal. I would encourage you to do both.

Let's remember that Reston's original planning and development required open space for active and passive recreation and I feel confident that will continue.

Please do contact my office if you have concerns. It is the best way for both of us to separate fact from fiction and work together to resolve community issues. As always your input is critical to success.

Happy Presidents' Day Weekend.

100,000 Homes Fairfax Campaign and Registry Week

The 1,000,000 Homes Campaign is a national movement of communities working together to find permanent homes for 100,000 of the country's most vulnerable and chronically homeless individuals and families by July of 2014.

The Fairfax campaign kicks off on February 23, with Registry Week, when volunteers create a name and photographic registry of everyone experiencing homelessness in our area. The personalized stories of these individuals will help make important decisions about how to prioritize and allocate housing and support resources. Volunteers are needed to assist with this effort and support outreach effort.

From the County's Streetlight Section: Streetlight Outages

Dominion Virginia Power (DVP) and Novec regularly inspect and maintain County streetlights; however, with over 60,000 lights in our inventory, DVP is on a five-year cycle, that is, it may take them up to five years to inspect every light in the County system. When they do encounter a street light outage during regular maintenance, the light is replaced with a high pressure sodium (HPS) bulb adequate to provide the illumination required for that specific roadway. County staff is not responsible for reporting outages, but since streetlights do fail on a daily basis, we rely heavily on citizens to report outages to DVP, in order to have those lights replaced as quickly as possible.

The County website includes an entire section devoted to Streetlight Outages, and many citizens are familiar with and frequently use this site, located at: <http://www.fairfaxcounty.gov/dpwes/construction/>

Transportation

Hunter Mill District Transportation Advisory Council News

Exciting news! The HMD TAC has a brand new webpage for their documents and news. This will be a new resource for HMD TAC members and constituents interested in the transportation issues within the Hunter Mill District. Fairfax Connector Dulles Rail Service Plan Public Meetings

The Fairfax Connector team has just concluded their first round of public meetings for the new Dulles Rail Service plan. The plan detailed new Fairfax Connector routes and adjustments for the opening of the Metrorail Silver Line in December 2013. There were three meetings held in the Hunter Mill District and they were well attended by community members. A lot of the comments were about increasing the mid-day, late night, and off peak transit services within the neighborhoods to provide greater connectivity. Organizations or neighborhoods interested in the service plan may request presentations. Fairfax Connector staff will be taking comments from the community until February 28. They will analyze the comments and make revisions to their routes for the second round of public comments in the spring. Once the second rounds of public meetings are complete, recommendations will be sent to the Board of Supervisors for their consideration. A copy of the Dulles Rail Service Plan can be viewed at <http://www.fairfaxcounty.gov/connector/routes/dullesrail/> and comments and/or meeting requests can be sent to fairfaxconnector@fairfaxcounty.gov.

4 Year Transportation Program Status Report

The Fairfax County Department of Transportation released their 4 year transportation program status report to the Board of Supervisors on February 12.
